GENTLEMEN:

It has been brought to my attention recently that you are considering grants to individual artists, funded by your Ohio Arts Council. Your consideration and support to these artists is most commendable and we applaud your good concern.

The opportunity a grant allows an artist is formidable. In most cases, it furthers their development to unknown heights and gives America its students of artistic genius.

One reason for my writing to your council is a suggestion that you entertain the application for a grant to Philip Sugden. He is a young man of extraordinary talent. His capacity to capture emotion and exactitude is remarkable.

Philip's recent collection of drawings from his Asian tour are especially inspiring and have been received with great praise and recognition. His exhibitions in Paris have exposed his talents to rewarding critiques and have enlightened people to a sense of detail rarely seen.

I personally view Philip's work with great appreciation and admiration. I sincerely hope that your committee accepts his application, as it will be funding talent for which all are to be inspired.

Most sincerely,
