I Space

230 W. Superior, (312)587-9976. ➡ "Thin Line" (group show). Here, not only are drawings presented as fully realized works themselves, but the definitions of what constitutes a drawing are given free rein as well.

Materials differ as much as approaches:

Shona Macdonald has glued thin strips of "214 Envelope Innards" to paper to create a tapestry-like field; Julia Marsh has ever-so-subtly altered a wall with a jagged block of fluorescent paint; and Francis Magnotta presents a conceptually dense flow chart of TV viewing habits. The products here are pleasantly humble, serving as a nice reminder of the way the simple activity of turning thoughts into lines underpins so much artistic activity. (AW) Through Feb 26.
